Did You Know?

Walkerton was never actually a village! It went straight from being part of Brant Township to an incorporated town in 1871 through special legislation — even though its population was only about 1,000 at the time

Walkerton once had its own German-language newspaper. Die Glocke ("The Bell") began publishing there in 1870. One of its publishers became known locally as the "Glockemann" — the Bell Ringer — and reportedly knew nearly every subscriber personally
